Hamilton Vectaire Fume Hood PL183-4 part # 60114 mfg Aug 84, Robotic Process Systems Solderability Tester Model 202TL.

HAMILTON®Vectaire®
Fume Hood*Operating Instructions

Caution: Do not use this hood for perchloric acid procedures.

1. Verify that exhaust system is operating before starting work within the fume hood.
2. Install equipment and apparatus as far back in hood as possible. Do not block baffle slots.
3. Raise hot plates, ovens and other bulky apparatus one to two inches above work surface.
4. Avoid rapid movements at hood face when sash is opened.
5. Sash is designed for use as safety shield. Work with sash in a position that provides suitable access and maximum shielding. Keep head outside of hood.
6. Adjustable baffles require resetting when procedures involve high heat loads, fumes generated at the work surface or heavier-than-air gases. Utilize smoke to observe exhaust patterns. Adjust for optimum performance. See operating instruction manual for additional details.
7. Proper maintenance requires regular clean-up of hood interior. Remove baffle for access to all surfaces.
8. Fume hood performance must be tested and certified periodically.
